

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An analog to digital converter for input signals having a low frequency component (such as DC) upon which is superimposed an AC component, the magnitude of the AC component being less than or equal to one-half the span of the analog to 5 digital converter.